Today we are on the road again. After a delightful visit with our cousins in Pompano Beach FL we are at the end point of the trip and now each day brings us closer to home and the triple digit heat wave you all are enjoying!

Our first night finds us at a real neat RV Park. The Great Outdoors RV Park.

It has 1300 sites and a 36-hole PGA golf course. Many of the sites have various types of homes with RV garages. Some sites have only screen rooms on them. The site prices range from a slab only, for $39,000, to a site with a home for $350,000.

The park arrangement leaves many green belt areas. However, these greenbelt areas have lakes and alligators in them. We sat here tonight and watched a bobcat cross the street with a fresh kill in its mouth. A herd of five deer grazed and drank just across the street from our site. You cannot feed the gators or they become unafraid of humans and will follow you right up to your rig and cause trouble. The park had to kill 4 of that kind this year alone! A nice thunderstorm and rain cooled it off nicely.

The only place in the country you can get real Key Lime pie is in Florida, where they grow Key Limes. They are so good we bought a whole pie and are working on it. In fact, it was so good we bought another one today. If we do not come home fatter, we won't know why!

We took a new route out of Florida this time. We drove around Orlando and went North to Ocala and then into Georgia. The humidity is still with us, as well as the dreaded road construction signs. We observed a couple of real bad wrecks on the highway involving big rigs. One had the freeway closed for hours and had a line of traffic stopped for four miles as we passed by!
