

WE'RE GETTING ENOUGH LOBSTER!

It is a toss-up whether this lobster is going to have me for dinner or the other way around! This one weighs in at 8 lbs. We saw a picture of a 24 lb. lobster!

Before we left for Prince Edward Island, we had a Sunday afternoon appointment to meet with the brother of one of our Redlands friends. The meet was to be in the Wal-Mart and Costco parking lot.

We arrived early so we could do some shopping. Guess what? Stores are closed on Sunday here in Nova Scotia. We did have a wonderful visit and dinner with them and we decided to stay in the Wal-Mart lot for the night.

We arrived the next day at Prince Edward Island via the worlds longest multiple span over water bridge. It was around 9 miles long and they charge about $40 Can., when you leave the island.

The Island appears small on the map, but we had to stay here 3 days to do it all! We went to a place called Woodleigh Replicas. The man who lived there for years built 1/6-scale replicas of structures like St. Pauls Cathedral, the Tower of London, the Dunvegan Castle and many other buildings. It was fascinating.

Would you believe that we drove for miles to see the PEI Potato Museum! Here, they cover the entire potato history, growing and research giving you more knowledge than you want to know.

Did you ever know that the potato originated in the Andes in South America? It was eventually exported to the countries of the world!

The last day we drove to Georgetown, PEI and found it to be almost closed! Their main industry shut down and there isn't even a gas station left. We stopped at a fancy golf resort and had a fantastic dinner at one of their restaurants. Seafood, of course!

The next morning, the wind was starting to blow hard, they did not close the bridge but you had to be on your toes for the 9-mile bridge drive.
