SWEET GEORGIA ON MY MIND

What we really did last week was take a vacation from our vacation! How many people can manage that?

We kicked back and enjoyed the afternoon thunderstorms and swam in the pool, and ate out at the Red Lobster, watched TV on the LA back home channel so we could keep up on your heat waves and fires. This area around Orlando is purported to be the second worst lightning area in the world after some place in Brazil. We also watched Armadillos wander about in the bushes at this RV park.

Saturday we left Florida amidst crazy drivers that are worse than California, and drove north on the back roads. It is a beautiful green country but it is Red Neck country! They do things their own way down here.

There are a bunch of trailer houses down here, all stuck back in the piney woods!

Our route takes us to Savannah, which is a nice town full of good ole boys.

They sell lots of pick-ups down here.

This is the time of year that all the “pickin” gets done. The Georgia peaches are tree ripened and sold at roadside stands, along with Vidalia onions and sweet corn, all fresh picked. We stopped and spent $10 and had all the goodies we could store in the motorhome!

We plan to go on to Charleston, SC and Wilmington NC to zero in on a couple more statues by Toth. Will keep you all posted.
