

BARKERVILLE, BC

One very interesting stop is the reconstructed town of Barkerville, BC. The town is operated by the Province and everything in it portrays the Gold Rush Period, including the town folks who act and dress as they did in the old days.

These people were the ones who gave tours of the town and told of the history. There are boardwalks that let you look into the old rooms or some even let you into the house or store.

When you travel to the town, it is at the end of a 48 mile road that terminates at the town. You must return on the same road.

This photo shows the length of the Main Street and how the boardwalks let you access the buildings.
