

BERRY HAPPY UP HERE

We finally left Canada, the land of loonies and toonies and $6 gasoline! We are currently residing in The La Conner Thousand Trails Preserve. As you can see, we arrived at the time of ripe blackberries. So far we have eaten 2 of the containers of them.

We saw our daughter Vicki off to the airport, to head for home.

School has started in this area and all the campers have gone. The Preserve is virtually empty. Last night we were here in the path of a huge thunder storm with lots of lightning and rain all night.

To regress a bit, after Hells Gate, BC we stopped at Minter Gardens. These gardens are similar to Butchart Gardens on Vancouver Island. Very beautiful flowers and trees are shown in many arrangements and settings. Driving along at 55mph, would you believe that the right mirror fell off. It bounced onto a gravel drive and came to rest without either of the two mirrors breaking!
