A TEST OF EVERYTHING!

It's time again the walrus said, to fix up many things. The RV roof and batteries, and people related dings!

We discovered that a tree branch had attacked and ripped the roof material open. Getting a $54 patch kit took care of that. Next, the house batteries died, but luckily $204 fixed that. Next it was discovered that the shore power wiring was fried, so another $75 took care of that. Then a blown exhaust gasket wanted $50 to stop the leak. This old boat with 119,000 miles is suffering from old age.

Old age is creeping up on us. Eight weeks ago I came down with a case of the shingles. Don't wish this on anyone!

All this being said we are still heading north for our annual escape from the summer heat in Redlands. Bonnie has her new ejection chair, so she gets in the motorhome in Redlands and gets out when we get back home. I can still take care of all the chores to keep existing.

Departure day arrived and the first thing to do was have all the tires checked, then to Costco for gas and a hot dog. Our first day mileage was a great 93 miles!

Right now we are ensconced in a Thousand Trails camp in Acton, CA
